

Disneyland Hotel, Paris

Middleton Consultancy's Chris Newton spent 4 years working on the Disneyland Hotel, Paris project and was heavily involved with the Bovis International project team as the Senior Commercial Manager and was responsible for the procurement and construction costs of the 500 bed circa US$80m Hotel as well as the US$75m multi use entertainment centre.

Chris reported directly to the Disney Project Director and was considered a vital member of the team.

Construction started on the 2,000 hectare site in August 1988 and completed in 1992 with many political and labour driven issues along the way, but ultimately opened to become the success that it is now.
