

King Solomon Academy Westminster

Site works commenced on this project in July 2008 and was completed by September 2010 for a construction cost of £17million. The project involved the renovation of Leonard Manasseh's original Grade II* School in Penfold Street, and adding new nursery, primary and secondary teaching spaces and dance/performance facilities.

Neil Hatingh of Middleton Consultancy was the Chief Site Construction Manager and was able to use all his skill sets to drive the Construction to its successful and 'on-time' completion.
